THERE is one point in connection, with the immediate future of France, which directly interests the foreign community of China, and that is the probability of the continuance of the subsidy to the steamers lof the Messageries Maritimes-without which the line must be discontinued. It is beside the argument to advance, because this line of steamers was established under M. ROUHER'S Imperial system of "energetic competition." not rest on any such grounds, but on the considerations-of finance. It is, therefore. France that some reasonable conclusion may | were made in the same manner to gain as-

At the end of 1869 the funded debt of the native population. France was 570 millions sterling; to this has loan of 30 millions sterling voted by the Legislative body last July to defray the current expenses of the war! Thus, on the collapse at Sedan, we have 600 millions sterling as a starting point. What liabilities have been since incurred is a subject not easily ascertained. Last October, the Provisional Government of National Defence authorised and obtained a loan of ten millions sterling, which, however, must be a very small proportion of the liabilities which they have incurred. We set aside, the consideration of the money which will be urgently required for repairing and reconstructing public works on the attainment of peace. At least 300 millions will have to be borrowed to raise the amount of 200 millions for the indemnity, so that it is really impossible to make any reasonable computation which will not give 1,000 millions sterling as the

the last degree, rendering the continuance of ing distance, and also on account of deep a heavy imperial subsidy to a fancy line of steamers an extreme improbability. If there against the tide was 122, and return with were a chance of the French steamers between Marseilles and China earning in a legitimate manner something approaching their running somewhat higher at first and somewhat lower expenses, an effort at arrangement might be hopeful. But the line hardly pays even with the present enormous subsidy, and the open-who planned and carried out the alterations ing of the Mont Cenis tunnel must necessarily in her build. &c. Not only is she now a fast and very handy little craft for the work for be the death blow to Marseilles. Besides, the China line is by no means the only specimen of M. Rouner's singular conception of "energetic competition," though possibly it may be the most audacious, and the probability is that all such freaks of Imperial energy, if not repudiated on their merits by the future Government of France, will assuredly be discontinued through financial considerations.

THE Hongkong Community may certainly be congratulated upon the rapidity with which the commencement of the Seamen's Church has become a fait accompli. The circumstance is, one which reflects credit upon all concerned, and which cannot be spoken of without feelings both of admiration and respect. It is difficult to say whether more house had been robbed of clothing valued at credit is due to the Community generally for the liberality which they have displayed, or to the Bishop of Victoria for the earnestness with which he set the movement on foot. The amount was subscribed with a rapidity which is certainly most noteworthy, and as was gracefully observed by Mr. JAMES WHITTALL, the representative business man of the place, the Bishop of Victoria might be considered to have taught business men lesson by the speed with which he succeeded in carrying out a most worthy object. Sir Joseph insisted that he had smelt tobaccol-"They all smelt it !" So this second yard of play was sent to shivers. But the Colonel had chanced to see a "Model of the Battle of Waterlao," exhibited some years before in Leicester-square, in which the various ministure platzons, of infantry, as well na the brigades of artillery, were supposed to be firing volleys, the clouds and wreaths of smoke being fragile fixtures. These capital imitations and wreaths of smoke were dicovered, on very close examination, to be composed of extremely fine and thinly drawn out webs of cotton, supported on rings and long twirls of almost invisible wire, and attached at one end to the mouths and muzzles of the miniature cannon and musketay. This model for a triumph in the art of smoking a pipe in the presence of a Queen who abhorred tubacco, was now adopted by Colonel Flint, but helin reserve for the morning rehearsal of the fulldress rebearsal of the same night, when there would be a preliminary audience.
